

Pseudo-Romantic Things Overheard In The Climbing Gym

February 12, 2021

Posted By: Staff in CWA Blog

Any relationship – belationship, friendship, or more – requires communication. Climbing is a wonderful metaphor for this, so we couldn't miss the chance to tell you what's on our mind.

Whether it's the first time tying in with a new partner or the 50th, everyone should remember to go through the steps for safety before leaving the ground. As we said in an earlier article, complacency can be just as big a problem as novice or inexperienced climbers being overly eager.

On this Valentine's Day, we encourage you to remind members that communication is key!

DON'T FORGET YOUR PARTNER
CHECK BEFORE CLIMBING

HEY, CAN YOU
CHECK ME OUT?

CWA CLIMBING WALL
ASSOCIATION

KNOW YOUR PARTNER'S BELAY STYLE AND PREFERENCES FOR BEING BELAYED

HAVE CLEAR AND DIRECT COMMANDS
WHILE ON AND OFF THE WALL

SUPPORT EACH OTHER UP THERE, CAUSE CLIMBING (A PARTNERSHIP) IS HARD!

YELLING AT THE WALL DOESN'T MAKE THE ROUTE (OR ARGUMENT) ANY EASIER

I JUST CAN'T FIGURE YOU OUT!

OFFER TO LEAD EVERY ONCE IN A WHILE

KNOW WHAT'S WORTH FIGHTING FOR

AND IF YOU'RE BARELY HANGING ON,
KNOW WHEN TO LET GO

You love your members. And we love our members too!
(That's you.) We hope you'll partner up with us if you aren't already, because we've always got you if you fall.

THE ART OF PRODUCT SELECTION

February 18, 2021

THE BEST MEMBER APPRECIATION EVENTS AROUND

February 8, 2021